Attitudes towards the Canadian Forces' Participation in Afghanistan

May 12, 2006

Methodology

- This analysis based on the results of a telephone survey of 1,013 interviews with a national random sample of Canadians 18 years of age and older.
 - Interviews were conducted between April 20 to April 27, 2006
 - ✓ A sample of this size provides a statistical error margin of +/- 3.1 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.
 - ✓ The statistical error margin of for questions posed on half of the sample is +/- 4.4 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.
 - Margin of error increases when the results are sub-divided (e.g., by region, gender, etc.). It should also be noted that the refusal rate and other measurement errors could also increase the margin of error.

Key Findings

General awareness

Q: Have you recently read, seen or heard anything about the Canadian Forces?

Role for the CF: traditional peacekeeping vs. peace-support

Q: Which of the following two statements is closest to your own point of view? Canadian Forces should...

... participate in broader peace-support operations around the world which could involve both peacekeeping and, if necessary, non-traditional roles such as fighting alongside other allied troops to implement peace in a disputed area.

...only participate in traditional peacekeeping operations around the world that involve observation duties or monitoring a truce between two conflicting partners.
