

Last year, Rogers Communications announced its intention to purchase Shaw Communications which includes Internet cable and cell phone services such as Freedom Mobile. The Competition Bureau of Canada has announced it opposes the transaction and has filed legal documents to prevent the acquisition. To what extent do you support or oppose the Competition Bureau's effort to stop the acquisition of Shaw by Rogers?

The CRTC - Canada's Broadcasting and Telecommunications regulator - has reviewed and approved Rogers' acquisition of Shaw's cable and broadcasting licenses with certain conditions. This decision has been appealed by a public interest advocacy group to the federal government and cabinet. To what extent would you support or oppose the federal government and cabinet rejecting the CRTC's decision and blocking the acquisition of Shaw by Rogers?
